Summary of investment options

The NZ Post Superannuation Plan offers you three investment choices: the Short Term Fund, the Medium Term Fund and the Long Term Fund. You can choose to invest your account balances (the money you have in your accounts now) in any of the three funds – or a mix. If you like, you can choose a different fund or funds for your future contributions (the money contributed to your accounts in future).

Growth assets

Best suited to long-term saving. Growth assets (e.g. shares) tend to produce higher long-term returns than income assets but with more highs and lows along the way.

Income assets

Best suited to short-term saving. Returns from income assets (e.g. cash) tend to be more consistent but lower over time than growth assets.

Understanding risk and return

Each of the three investment options is a different mix of the same 'ingredients'. Those ingredients are growth assets and income assets.

Remember though, returns from all types of investments can be negative.

A closer look at your choices

Short Term Fund

Lower risk; primarily designed for short-term saving up to 3 years

Benchmark1

Allowable range²
Income assets 100%
Growth assets 0%

Medium Term Fund

Medium risk; primarily designed for medium-term saving between 3 and 10 years Benchmark

GROWTH 55%

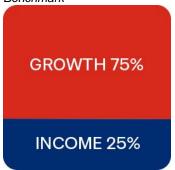

INCOME 45%

Allowable range Income assets 35-65% Growth assets 35-65%

Long Term Fund

Higher risk; primarily designed for long-term saving (10+ years)

Benchmark

Allowable range Income assets 15-50% Growth assets 50-85%

¹ The 'benchmark' is the mix of assets we aim to maintain in the normal course of events.

² We can vary the mix of assets between these ranges if we think market conditions mean it is in your best interests.

Which option is best for you?

This depends on your personal circumstances. As a general rule, the closer you are to retirement the less risk you will want to take on board. That's because you have less time to ride out the highs and lows associated with returns from growth assets. When you make your choice, think about when you are likely to need to access your savings. (The names of the funds give an indication of the timeframes they are considered most suitable for.) It also pays to think about whether you're comfortable accepting a higher level of risk in the hope your savings will grow more strongly over time. If you don't like the idea of negative returns you might be more comfortable in the Short Term Fund, even if you are likely to invest for a long time.

	Savings timeframe	Risk/return profile
	When you are likely to need to access the money	How you feel about risk
Short Term Fund	Up to 3 years	Not comfortable with the idea of a negative return
Medium Term Fund	3 to 10 years	Comfortable with the occasional negative return if it means a better chance of more long-term growth
Long Term Fund	More than 10 years	Comfortable with short-term volatility in order to maximise the chance of long-term growth
